MANAV HUMAN ATLAS <manav@iiserpune.ac.in>

Thu, Sep 16, 2021 at 2:55 PM

Dear Faculty member,
Greetings from Team MANAV!

We thank you for connecting with Manav through your enrollment on our platform and/or participation in various outreach activities conducted by Team MANAV. Development of the MANAV annotation platform is close to completion and we are gearing up with the process of onboarding students and faculty for a contribution towards this National Initiative.

As a step further, towards your contribution in supporting the development of the MANAV platform, we are hosting 'MANAV Scientific Reading and Comprehension Self-Assessment Module (for students)'. We will be glad if you can become a part of this activity by becoming the Faculty Coordinator of a batch of students in your college and facilitate the administration of this module to them.

Aim of this activity :

- To collect general information on scientific reading practices and challenges faced in comprehending scientific literature by Indian Students.
- To help students to self-evaluate their ability to comprehend scientific literature and identify areas that need improvement.

About the module :

MANAV Scientific Reading and Comprehension Self-Assessment Module is a 3-part Survey cum Self-Assessment exercise.

Part 1 (Non graded Exercise) - Will help get an overview of student's reading habits and their understanding of scientific literature.

Part 2 (Graded exercise) - Will evaluate a student's English proficiency pertaining to scientific text.

Part 3 (Graded exercise) - Will evaluate a student's ability to comprehend two research articles in a subject of his/her choice (Biochemistry, Microbiology, Pharmacy).

Please note that a student's OR college's performance does not in any way prevent you or your students from accessing the Manav platform later. Genuine responses from the students will contribute to making the MANAV Platform algorithms more intuitive and robust.

Who can participate?

Faculty members teaching Undergraduate/Postgraduate/M.Phil. or Ph.D. students can participate with their students. Faculty from the same college will have to ensure they do not take the same batch of students for the administration of the module.

Why should you participate?

Taking this module will help your students to train towards efficiently reading a scientific research paper and enhance their preparedness to contribute towards building the MANAV - The Human Atlas Project.

Certificate of participation :

All participants (faculty and students) will receive a Certificate of participation from the MANAV Human Atlas Initiative.

How to participate?
